Dear Chief,

In lieu of the recent terrorist attack to the City of Orlando, the Central Florida Public Service College and Career Readiness Program press conference has been postponed until further notice.

We understand that at the present time first responder's top priority is to care for the safety and security of our region, and our duty is to support their efforts.

The Central Florida Public Service College and Career Readiness Program will provide the community with a new generation of trained professionals in the public service fields. We look forward to soon announce the new date for the press conference.

In appreciation for your support,

Good afternoon Chief Mina-

It was a pleasure to speak with you last week during the Neighborhood Watch Citizens Awards Lunch.

I would love to speak with you more about possible synergies to create a community program targeting the issues of gun violence and young African American males, especially in urban Orlando.

Also, pardon the short notice, but tomorrow I will be hosting a brief program for National Gun Violence Awareness Day at City Hall Commons Plaza from 6-7pm. I would very much appreciate your attendance and support for this national call to action if possible.

Press Release is attached. The Wear Orange campaign (www.WearOrange.org)

Chief,

We need to start looking at event Ballin after Dark which is scheduled for Friday night. It appears we may be in this extended configuration until at least the end of the week.

After your briefings this morning you will probably know better than me if we should cancel the event. If we do I will get with Lisa and Brenda and move event back to July 1st. the next already scheduled date.

Thank you.

Eric

Did you know that all data storage manufacturers lose at least one out every 1,500 files in the digital archiving process? All except one...

100% Data Integrity Guarantee

Is this even possible? We had the same question until we talked with Nexsan.

Only one video archiving system—Nexsan Assureon—guarantees 100% integrity of data. Competing systems can't offer this guarantee, but instead credit back $0.30/MB for lost, damaged or inappropriately inserted files. But we all know that credits don't make up for exonerating a police officer or preserving a critical piece of evidence that can put a criminal away.

The unpleasant truth: other archival storage hardware manufacturers like EMC and Dell store data on Seagate, Western Digital or Hitachi hard drives, all of which have published acceptable bit error rates, so you're guaranteed to lose data with these other systems.

One vendor has even published that they lose 1 in every 1,500 files – so you'll just have to buy two of their systems for redundancy. Good for them, not for you.

CFIX Comment: Threats to, and the targeting of, law enforcement by international or domestic terrorists and homegrown violent extremists (HVEs) remain a persistent nationwide threat. Since 2014, the Islamic State and their supporters have published an extensive amount of propaganda encouraging attacks against law enforcement, military and government personnel, including specific mention of stabbing police officers at their homes. We assess that threats directly targeting law enforcement officers will continue for the foreseeable future and would most likely be spontaneous 'ambush' style attacks with small arms and/or edged weapons.

OpTac International News Bulletin

Hostage Rescue or Casualty Reduction

The recent attack and subsequent hostage-taking in Orlando, Florida brings the subject of response to high-risk tactical operations to the forefront of every law enforcement agency in the country. This edition of the OpTac International News Bulletin asks the question: Is there a difference between hostage rescue and casualty reduction when a SWAT team is called to perform its life-saving mission?

Current estimates for the Orlando Incident reflect 49 people dead and at least 53 more injured in what is now the deadliest shooting rampage in U.S. history. Additionally, one SWAT officer was shot in the head, but survived, due to the round impacting his kevlar helmet. OpTac International developed a model, which links factors for the determination of critical incident outcomes.

There is an inextricable link between leader skills, team performance, organizational conditions, and suspect actions as determining factors for successful outcomes on high-risk tactical operations and critical incidents. Law enforcement agencies must recognize that they may only be able to react to and restrict some suspect actions. Many suspect actions, such as what initially occurred in the Orlando Incident, are out of the control of SWAT team members and critical incident managers. As a result, the suspect was able to inflict high casualty totals in Orlando before being killed by SWAT personnel.

The rescue of hostages, whether through negotiation, extraction, or by immediately engaging a suspect, is paramount--this is a SWAT team's primary function. However, a tactical team cannot "fix" a situation in which a suspect is actively engaging hostages. Once the shooting starts, hostage rescue then becomes casualty reduction with the goal of limiting the number of hostages killed. A casualty reduction operation is much more difficult than hostage rescue because the shooting has already started and the element of surprise is lost. The key is adequate preparation before an incident occurs, and then taking quick and decisive action as it unfolds.

Adequate preparation means preparing at the highest levels through optimal pre-incident organizational conditions, and not, by merely meeting minimum standards. Quite often, hostages are shot and/or killed by responding tactical teams. One of several such incidents occurred in Sydney, Australia (2014) in which one hostage was killed and three others along with a SWAT officer were injured, all by police bullets. Police officers are accountable for every round fired and must achieve positive target identification before firing, even under the extraordinarily difficult circumstances present in high-risk tactical operations.

Recognizing that suspects play a role in determining the outcome of critical incidents allows for a more effective police response. This dynamic defines whether the mission is hostage rescue or becomes casualty reduction. In either situation a tactical team must be prepared to respond quickly, decisively, and with minimal margin for error; otherwise, lives will be lost.

Agency heads should ask themselves: In a perfect world, would I prepare my team differently if I knew that I could have prevented law enforcement personnel and/or hostages from dying on a future operation? If the answer is yes, then the cost-cutting measures currently in place will reflect the price of the lives lost.

Law Enforcement On High Alert After Orlando Massacre.

USA Today  (6/12, Madhani) reports law enforcement around the US and in London “stepped up patrols in gay neighborhoods” and “at institutions connected to their LGBT communities” in the wake of the Orlando massacre. The head of the London Metropolitan Police hate crime unit Mak Chishty says “there are LGBT liaison officers available in every borough who are out and about and using their networks to understand how the community is feeling and offer support.”

Lack Of Informant Seen As Important Point Of Contrast Between Mateen, Other Terror Suspect.

Drawing contrasts with Orlando shooter Omar Mateen, the Charlotte \(NC\) Observer  (6/13, Gordon) report the case of Justin Sullivan, an accused North Carolina ISIL sympathizer who was turned in to the FBI. An undercover agent with the bureau contacted Sullivan in 2015, after a call from his father alerted the bureau to strange behavior. The agent intercepted Sullivan’s alleged plot to acquire weapons and kill Americans. He was arrested in June. “The main difference between the (Sullivan and Mateen) cases is the informant,” said George Washington University terrorism expert Seamus Hughes. “I think when a father calls about his son, the alert rises to a higher level than just the kind of stuff you get from an FBI field office.” Mateen had been investigated twice by the FBI, though charges were never brought.

Analysis: Orlando Attack May Bring Back Fight Over Encryption.

Politico  (6/13, Matishak) reports the massacre in Orlando might “reignite the debate over whether technology companies must help law enforcement unlock terrorist suspects’ encrypted phones.” The AP says the killer “might have used one of a growing array of encrypted apps...designed to keep people’s communications safe from prying.” FBI Director James Comey says “We are going through the killer’s life...especially his electronics, to understand as much as we can about his path and whether there was anyone else involved, either in directing him or in assisting him,” but Comey “declined to say whether investigators have encountered any evidence of Mateen using encryption.”

Almost 60% Of Americans Have Leftover Opioid Pain Medications In Their Home, Study Finds.

The Washington Post (6/13, Bernstein) reports that “nearly 60 percent of Americans have leftover narcotics in their homes, and 20 percent have shared those with another person,” according to a survey of 1,032 people published in JAMA Internal Medicine. The survey “shows that nearly three-quarters said they provided the opiates to someone else to help that individual manage pain,” with 17% saying “they did it because the other person could not afford medication or didn’t have insurance.”

OFFICER SAFETY & WELLNESS

Orlando Officer’s Life Is Saved By Kevlar Helmet.

Business Insider (6/13, McGarry) reports an Orlando Police Officer who responded to the mass shooting is crediting the Kevlar helmet he wore with saving his life. The helmet was “struck by a bullet during the incident.” The department said, on its Twitter account, “OPD officer was hit. Kevlar helmet saved his life.” Business Insider adds that the officer suffered an eye injury.

French Police Officer Murdered As Killer Broadcast Incident On Facebook.

CNN (6/14, Bittermann, Hume, Cruickshank) reports a French police officer was stabbed to death on Monday night as the killer, Larossi Abballa, “broadcast the scene of the attack live on Facebook.” Abballa then killed the officer’s wife, who was also a police officer, and took their toddler son hostage. A SWAT team killed Abballa after a police standoff. CNN says Abballa is suspected of having ties to ISIS; Abballa claimed on the Facebook video “he was responding to a call from senior ISIS leader Abu Mohammed al-Adnani for the terror group’s followers in Europe and the United States to carry out attacks during Ramadan.” The SWAT team was able to rescue the officer’s three-year-old son.

TECHNOLOGY

CBP To Test Facial Comparison Technology At Atlanta Airport.

The Atlanta Journal-Constitution (6/13) reports that CBP “is testing facial comparison technology at Hartsfield-Jackson International Airport to verify travelers’ identities.” Travelers “15-78 years old will be required to go through the process,” which entails having “their digital photo taken while showing their boarding pass before heading down the jet way for their flight.” CBP “said several Congressional mandates direct the Department of Homeland Security to record the arrival and departure of non-U.S. citizens by collecting biometrics. It plans to start doing so for those leaving the United States from the busiest airports in 2018.”

Judge Blocks Release Of Information About FBI Surveillance Cameras By Seattle.

The AP (6/13, Johnson) reports that a judge on Monday prevented Seattle from disclosing details about surveillance cameras placed in the city by the FBI, after the bureau said such disclosures could imperil ongoing investigations. “U.S. District Judge Richard Jones issued the temporary restraining order after the Justice Department sued, seeking to prevent officials from releasing documents about where the FBI has placed hidden surveillance cameras on utility poles,” the AP says. The city had already released some information regarding the cameras by the time the DOJ filed suit. “The FBI’s use of the pole camera technique is a powerful tool in FBI investigations of criminal violations and national security threats,” the Justice Department said in its lawsuit.

NATIONAL SECURITY

Mexican Traffickers Using “High-End Tour Buses” To Smuggle Central Americans.

The AP (6/13) reports, “Mexican authorities say migrant traffickers have adopted a new trick to smuggle Central American clients to the U.S. border: renting high-end tour buses.” Mexico’s Immigration Institute “says it has found 102 migrants on two buses being used to whisk them across the length of the country,” and “migrants reported paying between $7,000 and $10,000 to go from an area near the Guatemalan border to Reynosa.”

LAW ENFORCEMENT AT WORK

Law Enforcement Praised For Heroic Actions During Orlando Shooting.

Today Show Online  (6/13, Hines) reports the officers who responded to the Orlando shooting, some of whom exchanged fire with the gunman, are being praised for their heroic actions. Former Orlando Police Chief Val Demings says “they are trained to run to things that most people run away from.”

Good morning to all,

I will be in charge of the overall After Action Report for the Pulse Nightclub shooting. I am in need of names, email addresses and contact numbers for all of your employees who responded to the initial call. Eventually we will need what their role was during the first 3-4 hours of this incident. If possible I would like this as soon as possible. If your members have filled out any statements I will need those as well. I appreciate all of your assistance and OPD cannot thank you enough for your support.

Orange County Sheriff's Office is in the process of sending me their information.

June 14, 2016

Hello,

My name is Alan Trueba, owner of American Family Funerals & Cremations, a Hispanic, family owned Ministry of Helping people in need.

We want to offer our services to anyone who may have financial difficulties with any funeral arrangements or services. Our services are half of what others charge and we will make every effort to help anyone who needs it.

I am also a trained Stephen Minister and a Chaplain with the Chaplain Ministries of Florida.

Our affiliation is with Northland Church who also extends their arms and resources.

Please let us know if we can help in any way. We have many resources that can be helpful and we want to be the source in the community at this time and in the future.

Please call me so we can exchange information and so that you can know that we are available in any way to make every effort for our citizens and their families...

Update:

Many of you have already received this. I just want to make sure you were all in the loop about the scheduling of the police meeting for today at 1300.

WH staff and USSS lead are visiting potential venues today. I'm not going to comment on the location since that will be based upon the White House staff visit and it would be premature to do so without their approval.

The meeting is today at 1300 hours in the Mel Martinez room, which is on the 2nd floor of OCSO Central Operations. Please arrive early to get the proper visitors pass to gain access.

I apologize for the lack of information at this time.

USSS has just advised of a POTUS visit this Thursday, June 16, 2016. There is no itinerary as of yet, nor is there a venue mentioned yet. Police meeting is being scheduled for tomorrow at a time to be determined.

USSS will update with time and location for the police meeting. As soon as I obtain further info I will update this email.

Morning Chief Mina,

I can't imagine how difficult this time is for you and your department. This is my City too as you know I am local to the Central FL area. I wanted to reach out to see if there is anything myself and Panasonic can do for you and the Orlando Police Department. Everyone's hardware is going to be tasked with the long hours that lie ahead. I've offered the same to the surrounding agencies and Fire Departments supporting OPD right now. Extra batteries, power cords or even laptops, whatever they need please not to hesitate I'll get it donated and delivered.

Thank you for all you and your department do for our city and again please don't hesitate to ask if we can be of assistance at all.

Dear Tim,

I am so sorry about the terrible tragedy that occurred in your community and the impact it has had on you and your employees. I hope everyone is doing okay, given these difficult circumstances.

Attached you will find some coping articles that may be helpful to your employees and managers. The articles contain the Toll-Free EAP access phone number 800-272-7252 for your employees and/or their immediate household members to call to arrange for up to 7 free face to face counseling sessions with a local provider.

I would encourage you to make copies of the handouts and distribute them to all affected employees.

Please call me if I can be of any further assistance.

Thank you,

Benita

Hello Chief Mina.

I read yesterday that Officer Adam Gruler was the off-duty OPD officer at Pulse when the incident began. I met Officer Gruler when I first became a judge in 2003. Over the years, we have shared many stories of our boys' baseball and other sporting adventures.

I know that you are very busy with the events that transpired in our city on Friday night and Sunday morning. But, if you have chance, please let Officer Gruler know that I'm thinking about him and so very glad that he is safe. When I learned he was involved, my first thoughts were for his boys. As awful as this tragedy was for our city, I'm am so relieved that Adam was not harmed.

My thanks go out to you and the other members of your department for the heroic efforts you made during this incident. I'm so very proud that our local law enforcement handled this situation as they did and that no member of law enforcement was injured. Let us hope and pray that nothing like this ever happens again in our great city.

Godspeed to you, your officers and our community.

Judge Julie O'Kane
